

Mobile Food Vendor Licensing Law: Educational Highlights and Tips to Help Understand the Regulations

Do you sell or offer to sell food in a public place like a street or sidewalk?

About the Mobile Food Vendor License Law:

The Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) issues six (6) types of Food Vending Permits. Five are Biennial (require renewal every two years). One is Annual (requires renewal every year). Permits are:

1. Citywide (full-term) (Biennial): Permit holders can vend year-round on public streets in every borough.
 - There is also a Citywide permit Reserved for Disabled Veteran/Disabled Person/Non-disabled Veteran.
2. Borough-Specific (excluding Manhattan) (Biennial): Permit holders can vend year-round on public streets in the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, or Staten Island.
3. Fruit & Vegetable (Green Cart) (Borough-Specific) (Biennial): Permit holders can vend whole fresh fruits, vegetables, water, and raw single ingredient nuts only year-round on public streets in every borough but are limited to operating in designated police precincts.
4. Restricted Area Citywide (Biennial): Permit holders can vend on private property or on property under the jurisdiction of NYC Parks. Vending on private property requires a lease from the property owner.
5. Specialized (Reserved for Disabled Veterans and Their Survivors/Spouses) (Biennial): Permit holders can vend year-round but are limited to operating around an NYC Park.
6. Seasonal (Citywide only) (Annual): Permit holders can vend on public streets in every borough from April 1 to October 31.
